

MPI 2023 ANNUAL PEACEBUILDING TRAINING

“Forging the Path Towards Peace: The Journey Continues”

May 15 – June 2, 2023

Mergrande Ocean Resort

Bago Aplaya, Talomo District, Davao City, Philippines

In 2023, MPI will conduct its 22nd Annual Peacebuilding Training and will once again endeavor to create a space where peacebuilders meet in mind, heart, and spirit to keep abreast of the challenges that the issues of peace and justice present. The MPI 2023 Annual Peacebuilding Training will take place from May 15 to June 2, 2023, at Mergrande Ocean Resort, Davao City, Philippines.

About MPI

The Mindanao Peacebuilding Institute (MPI) is an Asian training institute grounded in the Mindanao, Philippines, context that provides a space for people of diverse backgrounds to gather together, share, and learn in a safe environment where all viewpoints are encouraged and respected. MPI is a resource for peacebuilders: providing skills, conducting research, and building solidarity within the Asia-Pacific Region and beyond.

MPI was established in 2000 with the help of local and international organizations to bring together peacebuilders of diverse cultures from the Asia-Pacific Region to participate in its annual peacebuilding training. Since its inception, MPI has trained over 2,500 peacebuilders coming from more than 60 countries around the globe.

Aside from gaining new practical skills, many participants ascribe equal value to the bonding, friendships, and solidarity that are created among peace advocates from these countries. Indeed, MPI has become a venue where participants strengthen their commitment to peacebuilding through continuing association with peer practitioners.

Vision, Mission and Goal

MPI envisions just and peaceful communities in Asia-Pacific. To fulfill its vision, MPI seeks to deepen the commitment to justice and peace; respect for human rights; and dialogue and solidarity among individuals, institutions, and communities. MPI’s goal is for individuals, institutions, and communities to be empowered as catalysts for peace and social transformation.

TRAINING PROGRAM

The MPI 2023 Annual Peacebuilding Training will consist of 13 courses classified into two categories: Foundation and Thematic. These courses will be taught by a distinguished roster of facilitators from Asia-Pacific, Africa and North America. Four Foundation Courses will be offered concurrently in Week 1, with five Thematic Courses offered in Week 2 and four in Week 3.

FOUNDATION COURSES	THEMATIC COURSES
The Foundation Courses lay out the fundamental parameters, approaches, and processes encompassed in the field of peacebuilding.	The Thematic Courses build on the foundation courses by delving into particular strategic areas and focused applications.

WEEK 1: May 15 – 19, 2023 | FOUNDATION COURSES

From Understanding to Action: Designing Conflict Sensitive Interventions (FUA)

Phyusin Ngwethaw (Asia) and Joan McGregor (South Africa)

This course is designed for aid, development and peace practitioners working in situations affected by conflict and violence. It will explore the importance of designing interventions based on careful analysis of the context, taking into account the relationship between the conflict context and the intended intervention. It will provide an overview of current frameworks and approaches of context conflict analysis at different community and societal levels. It will explore the range of interventions that are needed to work towards sustainable peace. Participants will learn to apply practical tools for conflict analysis as a critical step in designing appropriate conflict sensitive initiatives.

Broadly, conflict context analysis will help participants identify different types of conflict, the causes of conflicts, the actors directly and indirectly involved, the progression and dynamics of the conflict, opportunities for resolution and possible outcomes. The course will concretely link the steps from analysis to relevant action towards effective change to transform the conflict and work towards sustainable peace, taking into account the concept of Do No Harm through conflict sensitive approaches.

This course will be ideal for individuals working at policy or programmatic levels in community-based organizations, NGOs, INGOs that focus on relief, development or peacebuilding programs, and government officials responsible for development and relief services.

Fundamentals of Peacebuilding (FPB)

Paulo Baleinakorodawa (Fiji) and Gabrielle Aziza Sagara (Philippines)

This course introduces participants to the broad field of peacebuilding. It will provide a comprehensive overview of peacebuilding and its multi-disciplinary and multi-level aspects. It will focus on how peacebuilding can bring about transformation in interpersonal, communal, and societal violent conflicts through theory, analysis, and practice. The course will help participants explore the challenges and dilemmas of peacebuilding in contemporary, protracted and violent conflict and will have a special emphasis on the development of a strategic framework for peacebuilding, primarily from the perspective of non-governmental practitioners. Participants will interact with current theories, analyses, and practices, with ample opportunity for developing analytic and peacebuilding skills through exercises, simulations, and case studies. Participants will be expected to work in teams on a collaborative application of the framework.

Introduction to Conflict Transformation (ICT)

Wendy Kroeker (Canada) and Michael Frank A. Alar (Philippines)

This course presents an introduction to the field of conflict transformation with a focus on the theoretical understanding of conflict and conflict transformation as well as the development and application of frameworks for this field. The COVID-19 pandemic has created social divisions polarizing communities and revealed structural injustices. Consequently, the key areas of attention will be to build an understanding of the role of conflict in peacebuilding, to enhance the application of conflict transformation skills to the analysis of conflict, and to explore the challenges and practices of intervening in conflict dynamics. Special attention will be given to the analysis of root causes of conflicts working on skills of adaptation and resilience. Opportunities will be given to reflect on strategies for one's home and work context. The course will be experiential in nature, allowing for conflict resolution skill practice and enhancement of conflict transformation understandings through discussion and group work. Teaching methodologies will encompass large and small group discussions, role plays, interactive exercises, and case analyses.

---

Understanding Grassroots Environmental Peace (UGEP)

Vanessa Bible (Australia) and MM Padmakumar (India)

This course takes the view that Environmental Peacebuilding should have at its core the concept of “caring for country,” meaning looking after nature, our habitat, and the habitat of other species with whom we share this planet. There are often conflicts over the extraction of natural resources (mining, logging, fishing, harvesting), water and land rights, and pollution of land, water, and air. To be responsible stewards, we must make every effort to look after our planet and biosphere for all human inhabitants, other species, and future generations. In examining links between peacebuilding and the environment, participants will gain an understanding of the way in which human and environmental issues are intertwined—caring for nature is caring for humanity. Understanding this is essential to effective environmental peacebuilding. Learning will be through discussion and workshops, involving interaction in large and small groups, role plays, active learning exercises, and analyses of case studies.

WEEK 2: May 22 – 26, 2023 | THEMATIC COURSES

Conflict Resolution Skills: Mediation and Dialogue (CRS)

Paulo Baleinakorodawa (Fiji) and Wendy Kroeker (Canada)

Prerequisite: Introduction to Conflict Transformation or Fundamentals of Peacebuilding or Introduction to Peacebuilding Theory and Practice or an equivalent course or experience.

Strengthening relationships, improving understanding, and the building and rebuilding of interpersonal relationships are key objectives toward restoring peace in contexts that are adversely affected by conflicts and social divisions or experience a history of violence and injustice. To achieve these objectives, parties in divided communities need to come together to engage in meaningful conversations that will lead to mutually beneficial and win-win solutions. This course will introduce participants to conflict resolution skills and approaches that are potentially capable of improving understanding and strengthening relationships of parties in divided communities. The course will explore the theory and practice of different conflict resolution methods with an emphasis on mediation and dialogue.

Sessions on mediation will focus on the conceptual framework, process and practice of mediation in both interpersonal and group contexts. It will provide a practical and general understanding of mediation and will examine the various stages of basic mediation process and the role of the mediator, and will afford participants the opportunity to practice some basic techniques of negotiation and help them develop their personal style.

The session on dialogue will introduce participants to dialogue as a practical and effective process for advancing conflict transformation and peacebuilding in various conflict contexts. Discussions on dialogue will explore frameworks, tools and applications for interpersonal and group or community conflicts. Participants will also learn techniques and skills of facilitation and relationship-building in inter-group conflicts as a method of nonviolent conflict resolution and transformation.

Dealing with Trauma in Times of Crisis (DTTC)

Gladston Xavier (India) and Florina Xavier (India)

This course is designed to enhance the basic awareness of trauma and highlight the importance of a trauma-informed approach to deal with current challenges. Using interactive methods of elicitation, role plays, situational analysis, case studies, and theater, the course will enable participants to gain a broad understanding of the concepts of trauma and enable participants to identify the causes and reactions to trauma; understand the dynamics of trauma and its impact; and use a set of tools and techniques to support those in need. This course will be beneficial for those who are actively working in the fields of development, peacebuilding, social work, human rights, and individual, institutional and community care.

Introduction to Monitoring, Evaluation, and Learning with a “Peace Positive Lens” (MEL)

Joan McGregor (South Africa) and Rhea V. Silvosa (Philippines)

Prerequisite: Introduction to Conflict Transformation or Fundamentals of Peacebuilding or Introduction to Peacebuilding Theory and Practice or an equivalent course or experience.

This course approaches monitoring and evaluation from a learning perspective and introduces theories of change, indicators, monitoring, evaluation, learning design, and tools for reflective practice. The course is designed to enable participants to practice evaluative thinking; design better humanitarian, development, or peacebuilding projects; monitor, evaluate, and learn from those projects more regularly and effectively; prepare for project and program evaluation more effectively; and improve practice and accountability to all concerned parties. This course is ideal for those who are engaged or planning to be engaged in project management at some level.

Media Prosumers for Peace: Savvy Use of Communication Tools for a Better World (MPP)

MM Padmakumar (India) and Jonathan E. Rudy (USA)

So much of our individual and collective perception and participation in the world is shaped by social media. From TikTok to YouTube, Facebook to Twitter and Instagram to WhatsApp, we are no longer just ‘consumers’ of content from these electronic media but ‘prosumers,’ regularly generating live and offline content. With a proliferation of democratized information, how do we discern truth from fake news? How do we know that we are not being manipulated by what we are seeing, hearing, and believing? How do communities experiencing injustice shape their own narrative through the use of media?

Apart from informing, entertaining, and educating us, mass communication platforms like social media, newspaper, television, radio, etc. have the potential to ensure a healthy democracy or harm our interrelationships at the interpersonal or even international levels.

This course will address these questions. Through input, class work, exercises and content creation, participants will practice and promote peace through various forms of media. Relying heavily on the experience participants bring to the course, the facilitators will be able to promote media and information literacy to be strategic in creating peace. In addition, participants will reflect on media ethics in order to respond creatively and helpfully in conflict situations.

Theory and Practice of Peace Advocacy (PA)

Vanessa Bible (Australia) and Gabrielle Aziza Sagara (Philippines)

This course introduces participants to the theory and practice of peace advocacy. Whether participants’ backgrounds are in social justice, environmental advocacy, natural resources, working with youth, community development, or any other peace-related field, this course will be applicable to those wishing to further build their advocacy skills. It will focus on some of the most important aspects of peace advocacy, including the theory of social and environmental justice, stakeholder negotiation, nonviolent communication, conflict transformation, and leadership. The course is designed to help individuals to identify and develop their own unique advocacy skillset, tailored towards their own existing or future professional field. By the final session, participants will have developed their own ‘peacebuilding toolkit.’

WEEK 3: May 29 – June 2, 2023 | THEMATIC COURSES

Gender and Peacebuilding (GPB)

Myla Leguro (Philippines) and Carmen Lauzon-Gatmaytan (Philippines)

This course highlights the importance of gender in advancing just and sustainable goals and approaches to peacebuilding. The course will cover basic gender concepts, gender-sensitive conflict analyses, and gender-responsive peacebuilding processes and approaches. Through mini-lectures, experience-based learning exercises, group discussions, and case studies, participants will be able to increase understanding on the role and implications of gender in conflict and violence and enhance skills in developing peacebuilding approaches that advance gender equality, peace, and justice. Participants will outline plans that will facilitate concrete applications of gender-responsive peacebuilding in their respective contexts.

Interreligious Peacebuilding: Theories, Approaches, Practice, and Reflection (IRPB)

Elga Sarapung (Indonesia)

In recent years, religion has become more prominent in public life, defying the belief that it will fade away. However, it has played both a helpful and harmful role in many communities. Religious and political leaders frequently use religion and religious identities to further their own particular ethnic, national, or religious objectives and practice. This is happening in many communities today. The idea that religious identity is only a cause of strife has been influenced by this fact. However, even in conflicting communities, there are examples of interreligious peacebuilding that are being practiced.

An overview of the theories and approaches for peacebuilding and conflict transformation in multireligious and multicultural settings and contexts will be provided in this course. The context of interreligious conflict will be discussed along with fundamental peacebuilding ideas, techniques, and interreligious models of dialogue. The course will also explore peacebuilding strategies and guiding principles of the major world religions through real-world examples of peacebuilding. Participants will be expected to tell their own stories and share their own experiences of living in diverse societies. They will be asked to explore their own biases and prejudices and what religion and diversity mean to them. Through discussion and group work, participants will reflect upon their own experiences and class learnings, examine challenges and opportunities for interreligious action and cooperation, and outline concrete ways they can facilitate applications of interreligious peacebuilding in their respective localities.

Peace Education: Designing Pedagogies for Change (PE)

Maria Ida Giguiento (Philippines) and Jonathan E. Rudy (USA)

Educating for peace is an essential task in moving a society towards a violence-free culture of peace. Where and how this education happens is a matter of strategic planning and priority when resources are limited.

Through classroom interaction and hands-on learning, participants will bring their existing wisdom to the task of thinking through the design, content, and facilitation aspects of peace education for different ages in their settings. This course will explore the main components of transformational education programming, including aspects of teaching, understanding how people learn, the actual content of peace education, and how to utilize structure for engaged learning. Participants will be designing and presenting their work to the group throughout the course.

Using Bloom's Taxonomy of lower to higher level-thinking skills—knowledge, comprehension, application, analysis and synthesis, and evaluation – participants will explore all facets of facilitated learning. To gain the certificate of completion, all participants are expected to participate actively and share from their own experience in peace education and learning.

Why Peace Needs the Arts: Exploring Creative Resources for Peacebuilding (ECRP)

Kyoko Okumoto (Japan) and Rosanna Quesada Palm (Philippines)

Prerequisite: Introduction to Conflict Transformation or Fundamentals of Peacebuilding or Introduction to Peacebuilding Theory and Practice or an equivalent course or experience.

In this course, the facilitators and participants will explore more deeply why we need the arts in peacebuilding, and together discover multiple kinds of creativity in ourselves and others. Through this process, the participants will come to understand that we are all indispensable resources for peacebuilding. Participants will practice multiple methods of arts-based peacebuilding and acquire hands-on skills and knowledge as well as basic theories. Utilizing an integrated theater-arts approach (music, visual arts, drama, movement, and creative writing), the participants will enjoy a series of interactive and project-based learning, combined with reflection and theoretical discussion. By the end of this course, participants will have experienced multiple forms of creative processes and expression which they will be able to use as resources in building just and peaceful communities.

IMPORTANT CONSIDERATIONS

Withdrawal Policy

For participants enrolled for two or three weeks: MPI will refund 100% of the tuition fee if cancellation of application is made three weeks prior to the training schedule (on or before April 24, 2023); a 75% refund if cancellation is made two weeks before the training schedule (on or before May 1, 2023); and a 50% refund if participants withdraw a week before the training schedule (on or before May 8, 2023).

For participants enrolled for one week only: MPI will refund 100% of the tuition fee if cancellation of application is made three weeks prior to the start of the course; a 75% refund if cancellation is made two weeks before the course; and a 50% refund for cancellation made a week before the course begins.

If an international participant must withdraw because their visa was denied, MPI will provide a 100% refund, less a 10% non-refundable processing fee, provided this is done a week before the start of class.

MPI reserves the right to withhold a 10% non-refundable processing fee for each cancellation. No refund will be issued for cancellation made less than a week prior to the start of the course/training schedule.

Accommodations and Meals

For live-in participants, check-in time at the venue will start at 2:00 PM in the afternoon of Sunday.

For live-in participants who will only stay for one week, please note that accommodations are covered from the afternoon of registration on Sunday until Saturday morning. Meals begin with dinner on the evening of registration and end with breakfast on Saturday.

For those who have chosen to live-out, you will have to make the necessary arrangements for your accommodations and your transportation to and from the venue each day at your own time and expense. MPI can provide a list of contact details of hotels and inns upon request.

For both live-in and live-out participants, if you have special dietary needs, please note it on the application form.

Travel Costs and Arrangements

Participants or their sponsoring organization will have to cover all travel expenses (international and domestic airfares, local transportation, visa fee, etc.) and make the necessary travel arrangements.

Visa Assistance

Most foreign nationals "who are traveling to the Philippines for business and tourism purposes are allowed to enter the Philippines without visas for a stay not exceeding thirty (30) days, provided they hold valid tickets for their return journey to port of origin or next port of destination and their passports are valid for a period of at least six (6) months beyond the contemplated period of stay." Please see <https://dfa.gov.ph/list-of-countries-for-21-day-visa> to determine if your country is listed as one whose nationals are allowed to enter the Philippines without a visa for a period of 30 days. Those holding Hong Kong or Macau passports should see the bottom of that page.

If your country is not listed, please see the general guidelines and requirements here: <https://www.dfa.gov.ph/guidelines-requirements>. However, we strongly urge you to visit or contact the nearest Philippine consulate or embassy that is designated to issue a visa to nationals from your country for their specific requirements since these vary widely and, in some countries, are very strict. You may also require documents from MPI that will be provided to you. We encourage you to begin this process as soon as possible.

COVID-19 Protocols

MPI highly encourages everyone to be fully vaccinated (two doses of a vaccine plus at least one booster shot) against COVID-19 prior to the start of the training. Please contact your airline or travel agent for the latest information on entry requirements to the Philippines regarding vaccination, as well as your country or locality's minimum health requirements. All incoming travelers to the Philippines are advised to fill out the eTravel registration form within 72 hours prior to departure from your country of origin. Please visit <https://etravel.gov.ph> to register. See their Frequently Asked Questions for more information.

MPI will not require proof of vaccination as part of the application process or upon entry to the training venue.

Medical-Related Expenses

Medical-related costs are the responsibility of the participants or their sponsoring organization. It is advisable that you consider purchasing travel medical insurance to cover any medical expenses you may incur during your trip.

Classes

Class numbers will be limited to 25 participants per course on a "first-come, first-served" basis. So, it is important that you select alternate courses in case your first choice is not available.

Classes are held from Monday to Friday and are typically from 8:00 AM until 5:00 PM, with lunch and coffee breaks.

Registration

Registration will be held between 3:00 PM – 6:00 PM on May 14 (Week 1), May 21 (Week 2), and May 28, 2023 (Week 3) at the training venue in Davao City. Arrival in Davao City should be on the day of registration. Please inform the MPI staff if you will be arriving early and if you need assistance for your board and lodging arrangements. These expenses for early arrivals or late departures are the responsibility of the participant.

Data Privacy Rights

MPI is not only duty bound by law but also believes that it must observe and respect your data privacy rights. Under Philippine RA10173, these rights include:

- The right to be informed
- The right to access
- The right to object
- The right to erasure or blocking
- The right to damages
- The right to file a complaint
- The right to rectify
- The right to data portability
